

HEATING or EATING?

Has it really come to this?

With the Government deciding to raise taxes for the big polluters like BHP and Rio Tinto, they have in effect trapped us and forced us to pay for that increase!!

Just when we thought that electricity prices wouldn't sky rocket because the Carbon Emissions Trading Scheme got postponed, we get hit with this! This proves that there is really no way out for the average consumer like you and I.

Origin Energy is just one of the many companies telling the media that the extra cost of increased taxes will translate in higher energy prices that will ultimately lead to higher prices not only from our electricity retailers, but higher prices at the petrol stations and every other place where we buy "energy" from!!

Who pays for it in the end?? YOU and ME!

THE ELECTRICITY TIME LINE:

Year	Rate (per kWh)	Average Bill (per year)	Comments!
2007	11.5c	$1000	The good old days of affordable energy.
2010	19c	$1600	This is an Increase of 60% ALREADY!
2010	22.5c	$1820	20% Increase confirmed for July THIS YEAR!
2013	31c	$2560	63% Predicted Increase
2015	40c*	$3300*	How about another 2 years out?
2017	50c*	$4130*	What will happen when the price of coal and oil gets even more expensive?
2020	60c*	$4950*	Can you afford to pay this every year?

An excerpt from the Australian: HOUSEHOLD and industry power costs, already expected to rise in coming years, will be driven even higher by the Rudd government's plans to tax resource profits, according to one of the nation's biggest energy retailers and producers.

Origin Energy managing director Grant King yesterday joined growing industry opposition to the government's proposed resource super profits tax, saying it would translate into an extra cost for coal and gas producers that would inevitably flow on to consumers.
 "The proposed RSPT will place additional upward pressure on coal and gas prices, increasing energy costs further," Mr King said. As the country's second-biggest energy retailer (after AGL), Origin is exposed to increases in prices of coal and gas.

It is also a producer of coal seam gas in Queensland, which supplies about one-third of the state's power and which will fall under the resource profits tax, as will its onshore gas output from the Cooper Basin of South Australia.

Mr King said the cost of domestic power was already expected to rise as growing international demand for power competed with domestic markets for coal and gas.

SERVICE IS OUR FORTE!

Contact us NOW to Go Solar now while the going is good!

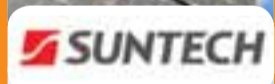

Never in history has a government paid out so much money for such a grand scheme.

They are doing this because THEY NEED YOU! Without YOU the government cannot meet its Renewable Energy Targets which it must do in order to maintain its status on a global scale. They are throwing money at this scheme because they NEED to, not because they want to!

When electricity becomes too expensive and your only option is going renewable, the government won't give you any money for it.

CALL Coast to Country SOLAR NOW and book a spot in with one of our professional consultants!
